

Ans.

BOOKS ARE OUR TRUE FRIENDS

Books written by master-minds provide us incomparable and invincible enlightenment in varied spheres of life. There is a vast scope of learning, getting wisdom and making innovations in life. Being our most faithful and justified friends, they never desert us but rather pave our path for perennial upliftment and betterment. They generate life in our dry mind and smoothen the thorny path of complexities. At one time all our friends and relatives may break bonds with us but books never side from us. They amuse, entertain, encourage, incite and excite us to free from the darkest period.

Books contain the best thought and experiences of the noblest minds that ever dwelt on the earth. They are the storehouse of knowledge, wisdom and perseverance. They give us a glimpse of the divergent cultures, traditions and rituals. When we are in pensive mood, we must seek the company of books. Thus the books are our best source of providing health, happiness and hygiene in our monotonous life.

With your school education, you have come across